History/Achievements

The manufacturer have purchased a number of workbenches over several years. In 2017 the company expanded so required additional workbenches. BenchMaster liaised with the customer to establish sizes and the ancillary equipment (louvre panels & rails) required. During discussions it was also agreed to increase the height on the workbenches to 950mm and 1000mm. The stretcher rail located underneath the benches was moved to the back in order for the operators to sit at the workbench while carrying out work. Trunking with twin sockets were included on some of the workbenches because power was required on some of the workbenches.

The results

The manufacturer have invested in new workbenches and storage in order to support business expansion. The ongoing relationship over the past few years helped BenchMaster win the contract. Albeit it at competitive prices. Overall the management of the manufacturer are happy with the workbenches and are now looking to order more for phase 2 of the expansion.

Quote / Comments

"Benchmaster have provided us with several quality workbenches that have been fit for purpose for all of our production needs. The benches we ordered came equipped with lock cabinets, additional shelves and louvres to make sure smaller components, tools etc. are kept within reach"
