History/Achievements

The customer implemented a successful business model that has seen more stores open year after year. This required the distribution centre to re-organise due to the increase in demand. The leading fashion retailer group employed a leading warehouse management solutions company to review the process and make relevant changes. BenchMaster worked with the warehouse management company to provide a number of workbenches for different stages of the process. Stage one was for packing orders, stage two for returns and re-work and stage three for receiving stock. In order for the process to be followed efficiently plans were put in place to ensure ongoing effective planning layout etc.

The results

The retailer has grown over a number of years across the UK and Europe. This meant that the distribution demand continue to increase. To meet demand of the distribution centre required an overall plan, which included purchasing new workbenches. The workbenches have been successful and due to ongoing demand more workbenches are being ordered every year. 12 more of the packing station have been ordered in June 2018.
